GAY CELEBRATION ON HALLOWE'EN

Gettysburg Has Two Parades. Many out in Fantastic Garb. Automobile Demonstration a good one. Prize Winners in Parade.

Gettysburg enjoyed the gayest Halloween in its history Friday evening, with two parades, a masked carnival, and the usual crowds of merry-makers on the streets.

On notice of only a few hours the automobile owners turned out in force to add to the coast to coast celebration for the big Lincoln Highway proposition and forty three machines, the most of them prettily decorated, were in the line that traversed every part of town, with horns tooting and colors flying. While Gettysburg was thus showing its enthusiasm for the monster road project every important city and town across the continent was holding some similar demonstration for the plan.

The automobile parade left Centre Square soon after half past six o'clock and wended its way out Bedford street to Seminary Ridge. Some of the cars carried red fire, others Halloween lanterns.

A transparency, suitably inscribed, added to the appearance of one of the cars while many of them bore the national colors. The sight from the Ridge as the double row of head lights came up the hill extending far into Chambersburg street was especially fine. Most of the machines carried their capacity of passengers and some of them took along parties of fancy costumed children.

By the time the parade had returned from Seminary Ridge the streets of town were well filled with people and the column tooted and honked vigorously as it rounded Centre Square and proceeded into Baltimore street. From here it went by way of Steinwehr avenue to Washington, to Broadway, to Carlisle and then by way of York and East Middle back to Centre Square where all faced about to watch the preparations for the Mummer's parade.

The Gettysburg Band lead the second parade, following Chief Marshal Tawney and his aides, and then came a hundred or more children in costume carrying Japanese lanterns that had been donated at the office of the Gettysburg Gas Company. Others in fancy dress appeared walking in the parade and among them was one woman in a top skirt, with the remainder of her costume belonging to the same period as the skirt. The judges picked her as the winner of the ladies' prize of $3.00 and when she unmasked her identity as Mrs. Frank Schriver was revealed.

A couple attracting attention in the parade were Earl Deatrick, with white duck trousers, cutaway coat and everything else in the "height of fashion", and David Myers dressed as a girl. Mr. Deatrick was awarded the $3.00 prize for the best gentleman's costume and little William Squire, appearing as the "yellow kid" took the $2.00 award for having the best child's disguise.

Riders and floats followed and many original ideas were brought out. There was the Oyler and Spangler truck filled with ghosts, a wagon equipped as a circus parade attraction with clowns, acrobats and a cage containing several live human monkeys. Uncle Tom's Cabin on sled runners was in line and one of the old "Cross the Prairie" wagons of the '49 period carrying a settler and his family. The Stoner steamer with a dozen live daisies was worthy of mention and other gaily decked floats were in the column, but the one which received the most attention was the "Devil's Den", a small vehicle draped in red and carrying no less than ten little live red devils. The horse drawing the float carried a blanket with the inscription "Devil's Den". This outfit was awarded the $3.00 prize for the best group. It belonged to Levi Diehl and the "devils" were a number of young ladies.

At the conclusion of the parade the band played in the Square and then all scattered to take up their own individual ways of having a good time. Many went to the Garden Auditorium where a masked carnival was the attraction and a gay time was had. Others wandered about the streets enjoying themselves until a late hour. There was not a thing to mar the whole event and the evening was one big success—a "safe and sane" celebration given the town through the thoughtfulness and energy of Allen B. Plank, the originator of the idea.

LICENSES PASS THE 2500 MARK

Opening Day of the Rabbit Season Sees Two and a Half Thousand Hunters Equipped with Necessary Permits and Tags.

County Treasurer Spangler on Friday passed the twenty five hundred mark in the issuance of hunters' licenses and it is now predicted the number will pass three thousand before the end of the season.

The office was besieged on Friday by anxious nimrods who were eager to get their permits before the opening day of the rabbit season and in the evening more than a score visited the Court House to get their tag and license. When the total for the day was figured it was found that more than a hundred licenses had been granted.

This morning Mr. Spangler had scarcely arisen before his home was visited by insistent hunters who wished to buy their licenses and he was compelled to make an early trip to his office to grant their desires. The demand is now expected to drop considerably but there are plenty more to come and the opening of the deer season will likely result in still more getting licenses.

Almost before dawn the crack of the hunter's gun was to be heard on the hills near town and the woods were full of men after rabbits. They are said to be plentiful this year and some farmers say that they have gotten quite tame so that many of them are shot close to farm buildings. This is one of the reasons for the liberality with which trespass signs have been posted, county people fearing injury to their families and their stock by careless hunters who get close to the houses and barns.

PHYSICIANS IN HOSPITAL FRACAS

Rumors that Physicians at the York Hospital Had Something to Do with the Strike of the Nurses. Positions All Filled.

The positions of fifteen striking nurses who walked out Thursday from the York hospital had all been filled Friday according to the hospital authorities. Their places were taken by former graduates and other trained nurses of the city who responded to an appeal for assistance in caring for the fifty or more patients in the institution.

It appears from the guarded statements of several officials that the walk-out of nurses is regarded as having a deeper significance than merely an ill-advised revolt in sympathy with one of their number who had been disciplined. That it is the culmination of a split in the hospital staff of physicians is declared to be the real explanation.

Mrs. Mary Smith, superintendent of the institution, intimated that something more than mere enforcement of discipline was back of the strike. Asked whether or not it was her opinion that it had been prompted either intentionally or unintentionally by members of the hospital staff she said that she did not feel at liberty to make any statement upon this phase. It is known, however, that one or two repentant nurses who presented themselves at the hospital seeking reinstatement, were sharply cross-examined by members of the staff, bearing upon whether or not a member of the staff had advised their leaving. So far as could be learned none of the nurses made any such admission. One or two of them, however, stated that Dr. E. W. Meisenholder, Jr., had strongly advised their return.

Dr. W. F. Bacon, dean of the surgical staff, stated that the reinstatement of the nurses rested entirely with Mrs. Smith. He said that he deplored the situation and would like to see the nurses back.

ARREST SLEUTHS IN CRAFT SCANDAL

Reading Councilman Swears
Out Warrants.

CASES ARE SENT TO COURT

All the Defendants in Bribery Case
Waive Hearings—More Disclosures
Are Due.

Reading, Pa., Nov. 1.—E. O. Conkling, manager of the Philadelphia office of the William J. Burns detective agency, and J. H. Sloan, who represented himself to City Clerk Ramsey as the agent of a fire engine manufacturing company, were arrested on the charge of conspiracy.

Councilmen Cummings, Flemming and Lewis, charged with "graft" in connection with a fire engine contract, waived hearings.

Detective Conkling stated that he had knowledge of other graft in the purchase of fire apparatus last season.

Andrew J. Flemming, select councilman from the Twelfth ward, who, the detectives allege, accepted a bribe when called from his work at Birdsboro last Tuesday morning, is the prosecutor of the defendants.

Warrants were sworn out before Alderman Kreider and they were served by Constable German not more than an hour after the detectives arrived in the city to attend the hearings. The warrant against Sloan was read to him at the mansion house, and Conkling was called from a conference with the mayor at his office in the city hall, when the warrant was read to him.

Both men were taken before Alderman Kreider and entered bail for their appearance at court.

There are two charges against the detectives—corrupt solicitation for attempt to bribe a city official and conspiracy. Bail in the sum of $2000 was required on the first charge and $500 on the second charge. John J. Witman, of the Reading Electric company, and Marcus B. Eaches went on the bond.

Flemming in his warrants avers that Sloan and Conkling offered to give him "a certain sum of money" to obtain and influence his vote as select councilman for the award by council of a contract for the purchase of a motor tractor for the fire apparatus of one of the Reading companies. The offer was refused, he states in his affidavit, as contrary to an act of assembly.

A second warrant by Flemming sets forth that Sloan and Conkling "did unlawfully confederate, combine and conspire to offer and to give a bribe in the shape of money" to the defendant, "known by them to be a member of select council," for the purpose of corrupting and bribing him to obtain and influence his vote for the purchase of the motor tractor.

Joseph R. Dickinson, counsel for Ramsey and Lewis, said that Ramsey admits receiving money, but that he is not a councilman and could not vote. He said Ramsey understood the money was offered for campaign purposes and was therefore legitimate. He denies that Lewis received a penny.

William J. Rourke, counsel for Cummings and Flemming, said that the offer of money to Flemming "was absolutely refused." "As to Cummings," he declared, "he was not at the hotel where the money is alleged to have been paid by detectives, and if Cummings accepted any money he understood it was for campaign purposes." I understand that Ramsey accepted about $105 from Sloan and believed it was for campaign purposes.

Both lawyers declare that the prosecution against their clients is a "political frame-up" for the purpose of defeating Cummings, the only one of the defendants who is a candidate for reelection at the polls next Tuesday.

Altoona, Pa., Nov. 1.—Fire and water did $35,000 worth of damage in twenty minutes in the four-story block occupied by the Anderson Paper and Twine company.

Ex-Empress of France Nearing End of Her Life.

Paris, Nov. 1.—The gravest fears are entertained here that the health, physical and mental, of the Empress Eugenie is breaking up.

Reports in imperial circles from Farnborough show that the empress is plunged in the most profound melancholy. She has completely retired from society and refuses to permit anyone to talk to her about the time when, as empress, she was the most beautiful woman in Europe.

Her fabulous wealth will go on her death to her kinsman, Prince Napoleon, whose prodigal style of living is already proverbial in Europe.

Killed Boarding Train.

Mahanoy City, Pa., Nov. 1.—Joseph Miller, thirty-two years old, was cut to pieces when he tried to board a Reading freight at Lakeside, and fell under the wheels. He was employed by the Lakeside Improvement company, and will be buried by it, because his parents are too poor.

NO MEXICAN PLAN TILL NEXT WEEK

President's Cabinet Fails to Meet to Discuss Policy.

FEDERALS FEAR MASSACRE

Orozco's Troops Flee From Chihuahua to Avoid Capture by Pancho Villa's Rebels.

Washington, Nov. 1.—President Wilson and Counselor John Bassett Moore, of the state department, discussed the Mexican situation at some length.

As most of the members of the cabinet were away there was no session of the president's official family. Since the president will go to Princeton to vote next Tuesday, there will be no cabinet meeting then, and except for informal consideration in the interval it is not likely that any plan of action will be discussed at a cabinet meeting until late next week.

There was nothing to indicate any prospects of earlier action. Moore did not discuss his talk with President Wilson.

Francisco Esquadero, chief of the department of foreign relations for the Constitutionalists in Mexico, telegraphed their headquarters from Hermosillo that the federals had evacuated the city of Chihuahua on the approach of Pancho Villa and the Constitutionalists troops.

General Felix Diaz and his party are bound to a point off Progresso, Yucatan, where they will be transferred to a New York and Cuba mail steamship. This information reached the navy department in a dispatch from Rear Admiral Fletcher, commanding the American squadron in Mexican waters.

Orozco's Federals Fear Massacre.

Dallas, Tex., Nov. 1.—A dispatch to the Dallas News from El Paso said Chihuahua City, Mex., was evacuated by federals, leaving the city open to capture without resistance by Pancho Villa's rebels. Villa's men had occupied the outskirts of Chihuahua before the abandonment. The federals were said to have retreated toward Juarez. The dispatch adds:

"Thousands of American and Mexican citizens who were unable to board the ten troop trains are panic stricken. They have no means of getting away from the stricken city and fear is held for their lives. Many believe that followers of Orozco will be given no quarter by Villa during the occupation of the state capital. The few residents of the city who have horses and wagons are following in the wake of the military trains, carrying all their possessions with them."

Rebels Kill Mounted Police.

San Luis Potosi, Mex., Nov. 1.—A force of 600 revolutionists rounded up, tortured and killed forty-seven out of fifty mounted policemen sent out from here to protect a ranch twenty miles to the west. Their mutilated bodies were in many cases hung on trees. The three policemen who escaped returned here.

Porfirio Diaz Off to Paris.

Biarritz, France, Nov. 1.—General Porfirio Diaz, who has been staying here since early in August, left for Paris.

COLLEGE BUILDING BURNED

Comenius Hall of Moravian Seminary Destroyed by Fire.

Bethlehem, Pa., Nov. 1.—The main building of the Moravian College and Theological Seminary, known as Comenius Hall, was destroyed by fire. Only the blackened walls are left standing.

The loss it is believed may reach about $100,000 on the main building. No loss of life is reported and it is believed that all the students got out safely, but several firemen were hurt in fighting the flames.

The fire started in the basement of the structure, but just how has not been ascertained.

The choice of the members is divided between a silver service and a pearl necklace, with the odds in favor of the former, and it is expected that silver will be selected in accordance with precedent.

The yearly salmon catch in the Puget sound and British Columbia waters is valued at $15,000,000. The fishing season lasts a month and is a busy one, most of the work in the canneries being done by Japs. Many of the fish are sold under certain limitations, while many others are taken in the revolving traps or wheels which work on the principle of a water wheel, the fish being caught in compartments on the rim of the wheel, elevated and dumped into inclosures, from which they are taken as wanted.

SWEEPING PROBE OF TRUST PROBLEM

The President Seeks Basis For New Legislation.

IS TO BE FAR-REACHING

Mr. Wilson Sets Out to Learn Whether Monopoly or Competition by Big Units is Best Plan.

Atlantic City, N. J., Nov. 1.—The beginning of a new scientific investigation of the industrial situation, under the direction of President Wilson, which will contribute to the administration's anti-trust program in the next session of congress, was announced here by Joseph E. Davies, commissioner of the bureau of corporations, in an address before the National Association of Hardware Dealers.

"Whether a competitive system of large units, or a monopolistic system is the most advantageous to society is the question the bureau will attempt to determine," said Davies.

"It is characteristic of the quality of mind of the president of the United States that he should desire facts on which to base his judgment. There is now no governmental or other agency engaged in attempting to get scientific information on this fact. We shall enter into this investigation with the sole intent of working out in a scientific and fair-minded spirit the facts, absolutely as they are.

"What is needed is light, not heat. The problem bristles with difficulty. The results may not coincide with all we hope to procure, but we can obtain facts that will contribute toward correct interpretation of industrial conditions as they exist."

Davies declared the solution of the trust problem depended upon the determination of the question his bureau is about to investigate, whether it be amendment of the Sherman law, an industrial trade commission or action looking to regulation by the individual states. If the monopolistic system should be found to be most efficient, there would still remain, he said, a question whether the government should maintain an attitude against monopoly by reason of other and greater additional evils it induces.

Davies declared that one of the chief concerns of the great body of people is, which form of production, competitive or monopolistic, can produce and sell what the public buys most cheaply, consistent with fair standards of living for workers.

"Within the last decade and a half," said he, "two hundred corporations have come into property of more than $22,000,000,000. Two hundred artificial persons own three times as much wealth as the country owned in 1850. The gross income of one of these artificial persons is equal to the total revenue of the government from internal revenue and customs. Twenty-four of these corporations have three and one-half the gross income of the federal government."

"The period of greatest development in this movement occurred in the face of the Sherman law and prior to 1904, when it was first sought to be made an active agency for the government.

"The unorganized many are demanding that law shall protect their rights from the encroachment of the organized few. Government or society is concerned with these tremendous industrial units on several different angles. What effect have these gigantic concentrations had upon the question of representative government and its perpetuity? What safeguards must the state throw about itself so that the powers of government may not be subverted by the greed of men and the inherent human selfishness?"

Davies spoke particularly of the contention that the government should regulate and control prices.

"Our theory of government is all wrong," said he, "if our laws shall not decree that the few men who are trustees for society and who should be fairly and abundantly compensated for the services they render, should also be prevented from putting their feet in the trough if they become animated by the fundamental greed that lies in human nature."

COMPROMISE PLAN IN CURRENCY FIGHT

47 Regional Reserves and Central Bank Suggested.

Washington, Nov. 1.—An unexpected turn was given to the consideration of the currency bill in the meeting of the banking and currency committee of the senate, when Senator Reed, of Missouri, a Democrat, came forward with a suggestion of a compromise system which will combine the central bank idea with the administration regional reserve plan.

Senator Reed previously had lined up with the administration forces in opposition to the central bank plan. Reed suggested that there be forty-seven regional reserve banks, or as many as there are reserve cities in the United States, and that a government controlled central bank that shall be a clearing house for the forty-seven reserve associations be established in Washington under the control of the federal reserve board to receive and hold the reserves of the regional banks and to be at the same time a bank of issue.

The Republican members of the committee appear to favor the plan Senator Hitchcock, the lone Democrat in the committee who has stood out for the central bank idea, also expressed the opinion that the Reed plan might become a important subject to be considered carefully if there is insistence on a larger number of regional reserve associations than is now contemplated.

The compromise plan was approved by some of the members of the committee on the theory that it would make possible the forty-seven regional reserve banks and in that way would work no disturbance in reserves as they are now held under the present system.

President Wilson challenged the committee's disposition to amend the bill radically. He let it be known that he will not accept any amendment providing for less than ten regional reserve associations. Most of the committee favors a reduction to seven or less.

The president believes that such action will work into the new system the opportunity for the concentration of money and credit, which the Glass-Steagall bill, as passed by the house, was designed to avoid.

"I don't get many Ralstons"

Because of their downright stubbornness in refusing to wear out, Ralstons give every man "value received."

Altho decidedly aristocratic in appearance, Ralstons are really economical shoes to wear. Their "up keep" is small. They make friends of every one except the cobbler.

Our personal guarantee of satisfaction goes with every pair. Fall styles, $4.00 to $6.00.
